If That's the Cure, I'll Take My Chances with the Disease!

Every other commercial on TV is for a pill to fix your stomach problems, sleep disturbances, depression/anxiety, cholesterol problems or erectile dysfunction to name a few. They all end with a monologue of side effects, voiced over a distracting video of happy people flying kites, playing in the background or strolling hand in hand. Those of us watching these commercials tend to pay more attention to the beautiful background than to all the warnings related to this drug or medication. We have a solution. When a drug commercial comes on TV just close your eyes and LISTEN... The side effects will be more apparent (and disturbing) when you're not distracted by the 'pretty visuals.' Big Pharma doesn't want you to think about the risks associated with taking their drugs. But if you close your eyes and listen closely, you'll learn how ridiculous, dangerous and deadly their products can be.

Dr. Mendelson; Physician, author, med school educator, said, "if that's the cure, I'll take my chances with the disease". How about a drug free approach? Eat right, exercise, get your rest, pray and meditate and think positive. Finally, Don't wait for pain or other symptoms! Get regular chiropractic adjustments to remove any and all nerve interference so that your brain and body can communicate better, allowing your body to function optimally and regenerate efficiently.
